

3D Printing Helps Jewelry Start-Up Ride the Mass Customization Wave

Check out how one company puts 3D printing at the heart of its production, allowing it to base its business on mass personalization.

Tech Blog

How to Install Autodesk's 3D CAD/CAM/CAE Tool - Read the D3 Tech Blog by James Jung.

Nastran® Quick Tip

Here's a quick video showing the thermal heat transfer and thermal expansion capabilities of Nastran® In-CAD™ within Inventor.

"Game Changer"

Metal 3D printing is now being tested and those researchers believe that it could change manufacturing. read article

Industry News

True Value: The Industrial Internet of Things Brings Added Returns to Customers

By now, the mystery surrounding the Internet of Things has been largely solved, as more consumer and industrial products are being connected to the cloud. But though the definition of IoT may be known, its value might still seem a bit murky. After all, what is the point if it's not providing value?

read on >

New Employees

Amy Heitt works out of the D3 Springfield office. Here are some quick facts about Amy:

Education: Associates Degree in Computer Technology

Work History: Amy has done everything from retail to tech support to phone support and back again. Before working at D3, Amy had used AutoCAD software once.

Position: Contract Coordinator for D3, Amy verifies that contracts are accurate and current.

Shane Martin works out of the D3 Springfield office. Here are some quick facts about Shane:

Education: Shane was a CIS major at Missouri State University.

Work History: For the past five years Shane has worked as a system administrator at RPCS Inc., and before that he worked in the IT department for General Health.

Position: Implementation Consultant for D3, Shane's main focus is on Vault implementations, upgrades, and support.

Founded in 1998 by manufacturing engineering & design professionals, D3 has become a trusted advisor to manufacturing companies throughout the U.S. helping them win more business and reduce costs.

Springfield | Baton Rouge | Lafayette | Kansas City | Tulsa | Little Rock | St. Louis
Wichita | Denver | Memphis | Jonesboro | Northglenn | Dallas